GREATEST PARACHUTE ACT BE-FORE PUBLIC FOR TWELVE DAYS, SEPT. 22 TO OCT. 3.

appear daily at the Oklahoma State Fair and Exposition, Oklahoma City, September 22 to October 3.

Ed. R. Hutchinson, America's foremost and most successful aeronaut, has been engaged at an enormous expense to appear daily at the eighth annual Oklahoma State Fair and Exposition, Oklahoma City, Sept. 22 to Oct. 3, 1914.

In giving out the announcement of the engagement of this world-famous aerial navigator, the statement was made that the greatest parachute act of the century will be presented when two men will make eight parachute drops from one balloon. The act is declared to be the last word in aeronautic daring—a dare-devil, death-defying parachute feat, that beggars description, and the greatest performance of the kind in the world today. It is said the spectators will have many kinds of thrills when the jump ers begin to make their terrific whirl at a frightful speed through space each time a parachute opens. In a word, just as fast as one parachute opens and begins to permit the aeronauts to descend gently to the earth. they make another jump and so on until eight are made.

The mammoth balloons that will be used on this occasion are the finest in the world today, and will be filled by the up-to-date process, requiring only a few minutes to fill. Spectators will be permitted to gather around the balloons, within a reasonable distance, before the terrific and perilous start, which will be more than the start of the balloons in the old days when old-time methods were employed.

There will be all the excitement of the start of a horse race, or automobile race, accompanied by the novel and sublime features of a balloon go ing up and the expectancy of what may happen before the two men get back to mother earth.

Contracts for this tremendous set are not problematicil but have already been closed. Under the terms of the agreement, Hutchinson himself will come to the Oklahoma State Fair and Exposition to direct the flights of Howard and W. H. Reichard, two of the world's greatest aeronauts.

BLINDNESS IS BOY'S FATE

Appailing Effect of Careless Action Will Be the Permanent Loss of Child's Eyesight

Gashed across the face by a pair of scissors which a playmate inought-lessly wielded in a reckless manner, three-year-old Thomas Inglesbry will iose the sight of both eyes. The injured boy is in a critical condition in the Polyclinic hospital, and physicians say that, even though an operation to remove the terribly lacerated optics be necessary, he will be blinded for

With several companions who were spending last evening in his home, young inglesbry was cutting strips from a newspaper to solve a picture puzzle. One of his playmates, unconscious of inglesbry's presence, threw out the hand in which he was holding the scissors. The sharp point struck the Iglesbry boy's right eye and swept across the bridge of his nose, penetrating the other eye. Both eyeballs were lmost gouged from their sockets The wounded child's screams of agony attracted his parents, and they hur-ried him to the hospital.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Highly Efficacious in Tuberculosis. Physicians on this side of the At-berculosis. A Dublin doctor has been working on the theory for some years past

Metropolitan hospital in New York. It is said that there is little tuberculosis in Italy, where garlie chewing is a national habit, and that in this country it is the Italian children who have given up chewing garlic who succumb to the "great white plague." Garlie contains a chemical substance called allyl sulphide in the percentage of two drops to a teaspoonful of juice, which is much stronger than the amount of the same chemical found in onions or shallots. It is this drug which, it is claimed, destroys the tubercular bacilit.

Garife juice is said to act very quickly upon tuberculosis of the throat, which heretofore has been almost impossible to treat, and application of the juice to lupus (tuberculogie of the skin) has excellent results unless the disease is of long standing.

It Was New to Him. It was in a city restaurant that a little short woman and her tall husband entered and sat at a table. "Will you have fried oysters?" asked the man, glancing over the bill

"Yes," answered the little short woman, as she tried in vain to touch her toes to the floor. "And John, I want a hassock."

John nodded, and, as he handed his order to the walter, he said, "And bring a hassock for the lady."

'One hassock?" repeated the walter, with more than ordinary interest. Then he lingered around the table, brushing the tablecloth, and rearrang ing the articles on it, while his face got very red. Finally he came arcund to John's side and whispered:

"Say, mister, I haven't been here long and I'm not on to all these things. Will the lady have the hasock bolled or fried!"

Yes, the microbe craze is a good thing. It has cleaned up the world. It has put a lot of diseases on the run But, at the same time, it has its humorous side

"I frequently urge my little son to have nothing to do with dogs or cats, because they are full of microbes This morning, however, I came upon him on the beach playing with a stray mongrel. But just as I came up he quitted the mongrel hurriedly.

"'Papa,' he said, 'it's true about dogs having microbes. A big black microbe just jumped out of that dog's coat and lighted on my hand."

HAD THE CAP AND MESSAGE

Monkey's Fun With Messenger Boy Was Altogether One-Sided, for a Period, at Least.

A clerk on the fifth floor of the hall of records at New York saw a dark object flit by a window and opened the window to investigate. As he poked his head out he saw a fairly largesized monkey chattering and scolding from the next window sill. Down below a crowd had gathered, attracted by the unusual sight, and among the most interested was a hatless messenger boy. His interest was explained by the fact that the monkey held his hat in its pawe and seemed about to tear it up, number plate, and all.

"Run along, sonny, and deliver your message," said a stout man, who was among the watchers. "I'll stay till the monkey is caught and keep your cap for you."

"Dat's all right," said the messenger,

"but de message is in me cap." The monkey ran from window to window trying to evade the volunteers who rapidly organized a pursuit and finally captured it. Its collar bore the name of William H. Benjamin of 56 Pine street. Over the telephone Mr. Benjamin said he bought the animal from a South American sailor recently, and it had escaped by unfastening its chain in his office before he could take It to his home at Morristown, N. J. Mr. Benjamin called at the hall of records later and got his monkey.
